Jason Derulo

The video for his latest single, 'Want to Want Me,' just dropped

This track's got a funky, throwback sound.

I wanted to dive into the '80s headfirst. A lot of the album is like that vibe—influences from Michael Jackson and Prince.

You and Jordin Sparks split while you were recording. Is it a breakup album?

I don't dwell on negativity. I was making this album [to be] a breath of fresh air.

How are you enjoying single life?

I've gotten a chance to really learn about myself. I'm having a lot of fun. I'm not really looking to settle down right away.

Bruce Jenner's family is divided as he continues his transition from male to female.

'He is still the most "normal" one from that family'

Robin Wargo via e-mail

Bruce Jenner

What I see in the midst of all of this is that all of those kids adore him. He seems so kind and down-to-earth. He has spent years and years being who and what everyone else needed him to be. It's his turn now, and I hope Bruce finds true happiness.

Mary Beth via People.com

Raising Quadruplets

I'm definitely Team Bruce, and I understand that Bruce's transition from male to female interests a lot of people. But the person who really deserved to be on the cover was Carlos Morales, the new father who lost his wife shortly after childbirth and is now raising four newborns on his own. He is doing something that thankfully very few people will ever have to endure.

Kathy Chambers-Lowenstein
Hayward, Calif.

I held back tears as I was reading and looking through photos. I can't imagine the pain his family must feel, but Carlos is truly blessed to have such an amazing support system. My prayers go out to Carlos, his family and his beautiful babies.

Nisse Chism Alexandria, Va.

This was such an inspiring story. Carlos Morales could have easily given up. But he didn't, because he knew his wife would want him to carry on and take care of those four beautiful babies. He is doing a terrific job, and I know his wife is with him and watching over those precious babies.

Little Family, Big News

A lot has changed for Amber and Trent Johnston and their five children—all achondroplasia dwarfs—since we wrote about them in our Aug. 20, 2012, issue. For starters they are now reality TV stars, with a TLC show, 7 Little Johnstons, premiering March 31 at 10 p.m. "We are ecstatic," Amber, 35, tells PEOPLE exclusively. They also sold their old house in Barnesville, Ga., and moved to a fixer-upper in nearby Forsyth last year—and are doing all the renovations themselves. "Amber and I rewired the house before we moved in," says Trent, 39, a grounds supervisor at a local college. "And when we did move in, the bottom floor was the only thing that was livable." Amber hopes their new show conveys that can-do spirit. "We don't let our size get in the way," she says. "Nothing stops us."

Imagine another PERSPECTIVE on relapsing MS

Consider TECFIDERA—a pill that has the strength to cut relapses in half.

TECFIDERA is a pill for relapsing multiple sclerosis (MS) that has been shown to cut relapses in half. During a 2-year study, TECFIDERA reduced risk of relapse by 49% compared with placebo. TECFIDERA is also proven to slow the development of brain lesions and delay the progression of physical disability. Over 135,000 people around the world have taken TECFIDERA.* Ask your doctor if you should too.

Tecfidera® (dimethyl fumarate) is a prescription medicine used to treat people with relapsing forms of multiple sclerosis.

Important Safety Information

Do not use TECFIDERA if you have had an allergic reaction (such as welts, hives, swelling of the face, lips, mouth or tongue, or difficulty breathing) to TECFIDERA or any of its ingredients.

Before taking and while you take TECFIDERA, tell your doctor about any low white blood cell counts or infections or any other medical conditions.

What are the possible side effects of TECFIDERA? TECFIDERA may cause serious side effects including allergic reactions, PML, which is a rare brain infection that usually leads to death or severe disability, and decreases in your white blood cell count. Your doctor may check your white blood cell count before you take TECFIDERA and from time to time during treatment.

The most common side effects of TECFIDERA include flushing and stomach problems. These can happen especially at the start of treatment and may decrease over time. Taking TECFIDERA with food may help reduce flushing. Call your doctor if these symptoms bother you or do not go away. Ask your doctor if taking aspirin before taking TECFIDERA may reduce flushing.

These are not all the possible side effects of TECFIDERA. Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088. For more information go to daily.med.nlm.nih.gov.

Tell your doctor if you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant, or breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if TECFIDERA will harm your unborn baby or if it passes into your breast milk. Also tell your doctor if you are taking prescription or over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, or herbal supplements.

For additional important safety information, please see Patient Information on the following page. This is not intended to replace discussions with your doctor.

What is TECFIDERA?

- TECFIDERA is a prescription medicine used to treat people with relapsing forms of multiple sclerosis (MS)
- It is not known if TECFIDERA is safe and effective in children under 18 years of age

Who should not take TECFIDERA?

- Do not use TECFIDERA if you have had an allergic reaction (such as welts, hives, swelling of the face, lips, mouth or tongue, or difficulty breathing) to TECFIDERA or any of its ingredients. See below for a complete list of ingredients.

Before taking and while you take TECFIDERA, tell your doctor if you have or have had:

- low white blood cell counts or an infection
- any other medical conditions

Tell your doctor if you are:

- pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if TECFIDERA will harm your unborn baby.
 - If you become pregnant while taking TECFIDERA, talk to your doctor about enrolling in the TECFIDERA Pregnancy Registry. You can enroll in this registry by calling 1-866-810-1462 or visiting www.tecfiderapregnancyregistry.com. The purpose of this registry is to monitor the health of you and your baby.
- breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if TECFIDERA passes into your breast milk. You and your doctor should decide if you will take TECFIDERA or breastfeed.
- taking prescription or over-the-counter medicines, vitamins, or herbal supplements

How should I take TECFIDERA?

- Take TECFIDERA exactly as your doctor tells you to take it
- The recommended starting dose is one 120 mg capsule taken by mouth 2 times a day for 7 days
- The recommended dose after 7 days is one 240 mg capsule taken by mouth 2 times a day
- TECFIDERA can be taken with or without food
- Swallow TECFIDERA whole. Do not crush, chew, or sprinkle capsule contents on food.
- Protect TECFIDERA from light. You can do this by storing the capsules in their original container.

What are the possible side effects of TECFIDERA?

TECFIDERA may cause serious side effects, including:

- allergic reactions (such as welts, hives, swelling of the face, lips, mouth or tongue, or difficulty breathing)
- PML a rare brain infection that usually leads to death or severe disability
- decreases in your white blood cell count. Your doctor should do a blood test before you start treatment with TECFIDERA and while on therapy.

The most common side effects of TECFIDERA include:

- flushing, redness, itching, or rash
- nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, stomach pain, or indigestion
- Flushing and stomach problems are the most common reactions, especially at the start of therapy, and may decrease over time. Taking TECFIDERA with food may help reduce flushing. Call your doctor if you have any of these symptoms and they bother you or do not go away. Ask your doctor if taking aspirin before taking TECFIDERA may reduce flushing.

These are not all the possible side effects of TECFIDERA. Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088. For more information, go to dailymed.nlm.nih.gov.

General information about the safe and effective use of TECFIDERA

- Medicines are sometimes prescribed for purposes other than those listed in this Patient Information. Do not use TECFIDERA for a condition for which it was not prescribed. Do not give TECFIDERA to other people, even if they have the same symptoms that you have. It may harm them.
- If you would like more information, talk to your doctor or pharmacist. You can ask your doctor or pharmacist for information about TECFIDERA that is written for healthcare professionals.

What are the ingredients in TECFIDERA?

Active ingredient: dimethyl fumarate

ROB KARDASHIAN

'HE IS REALLY STRUGGLING'

The Kardashians live, breathe—and profit from—drama. But when Rob Kardashian compared his sister Kim to Gone Girl's fictional psychopath Amy Dunne (played by Rosamund Pike, right) on Instagram March 22, it revealed a deepening rift between siblings—and brought to light major concerns about his well-being. "The attitude has always been that when Rob gets his act together, starts working out and loses weight, everything will be good and he will be happy," says a production source on the family's E! reality show Keeping Up with the Kardashians. "But behind the weight gain is this very unhealthy mental state that he keeps struggling with." It's a struggle that began as Rob, 28, a would-be entrepreneur who once launched a sock line, watched his sisters Kim, 34, Kourtney, 35, Khloé, 30, Kendall, 19, and Kylie, 17, develop thriving businesses under the direction of their mother/manager, Kris Jenner. Last May, amidst scrutiny of his weight gain, he abruptly changed plans to attend Kim's wedding; in June, he faced allegations of drug use when pictures surfaced showing him surrounded by paraphernalia associated with the cough syrup and soda blend known as "sizzurp." In the months since, he has studiously avoided the spotlight. "It's really hard for him that his sisters are so public and he looks like the shut-in," adds a second source. "So he has retreated more. He's sad, he's bitter, he's single. He is very depressed and has been." (A rep for Rob did not respond to a request for comment.) With Rob not currently filming KUWTK—"Kris doesn't want him on the show when he is emotionally unstable," says the production source—family members have encouraged the star to get help, even staging multiple interventions to no avail. "He is very against therapy and any kind of rehab," says the production source. "But his family will continue to push for him to get help until he does."

PRINCE ALBERT SLAMS TALK OF A SPLIT

Charlene and Albert
with twins
Gabriella and Jacques.

ATTENTION, NAYSAYERS: PRINCE

Albert and Princess Charlene's marriage is going strong. Three months after welcoming twins Jacques and Gabriella, the royal couple have been facing rumors of a split because Charlene, 37, has been spending time in the South of France. "It's ridiculous," Albert, 57, tells PEOPLE. He says they have just temporarily moved away from their Monaco palace (inset) while it undergoes a major renovation, including the nursery. "It's not totally calm and quiet the way you would like . . . when there are very young children around," says the Prince. While they wait for the construction dust to settle, Albert (who has two children from previous relationships) says they're soaking up every moment of baby bliss: "I give them their midnight bottles, I change and bathe them . . . it's been an incredible experience."

EXCLUSIVE COVER REVEAL!

Harper Lee's New Book

Questions still surround the hotly anticipated follow-up to Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird. Was the author, 88, manipulated into publishing? (Alabama authorities have closed their probe into any financial fraud.) One thing that's no longer a mystery: the new book's cover, a retro homage to Lee's 1960 classic. Publisher HarperCollins also gave some clues about what's in store for Mockingbird's Scout, Jem and Atticus: "Go Set a Watchman begins with Scout's train ride home," says HC president Michael Morrison. "More profoundly, it is about the journey [these characters] have taken in the subsequent 20 years of their lives." The book is out July 14.

RICKY GERVAIS

What My Cat Knows About Me

The comedian, 53—who stars as an oddball retirement-home worker in Netflix's Derek Special (out April 3)—shares secrets only his cat Ollie knows:

My cat knows I'm a warm person. Well, she doesn't know that I'm a person, to be honest. But she knows I'm warm. Particularly around the lap area. She also knows she can sit there undisturbed for as long as she likes. I'm not allowed to move until she decides to get off. She also knows when I'm going to sneeze. She hates it. So even before it happens, she senses the signs and bolts away from me. She knows a little "meow" can get her brushed. She also knows how to brush herself when I stop. But my favorite thing she knows is that I regularly go to the kitchen for a beer and have to walk past the stairs. She runs up and gets to the stair that's head height for a little fight with me through the banister. The saddest thing she knows is a suitcase means I'm leaving her for a few days. She sits in it and follows me everywhere as if to say, "I'm coming with you."

CATCHING UP WITH JORDANA BREWSTER

THE FURIOUS 7 STAR OPENS UP ABOUT HER HAPPILY
HECTIC LIFE WITH 'ON-THE-GO' SON JULIAN

Brewster (with costar Vin Diesel) reprises her role as Mia in Furious 7, out April 3.

"Every day I fall deeper in love with this amazing gift," says Brewster of Julian. "I'm in awe every day."

Since welcoming her son Julian, actress Jordana Brewster hasn't had much downtime—but she tells PEOPLE that she wouldn't have it any other way. "What's so wonderful about motherhood is that you're constantly busy," says the Furious 7 star, 34, whose son was born in September 2013 via a gestational surrogate. The hands-on mom—who tries to squeeze in weekend workouts and weekly date nights with her husband, producer Andrew Form, 46—begins her day at 6 a.m., when 18-month-old Julian wakes up for a packed schedule of music classes, museum trips and swim lessons. "He loves the water and, as a Brazilian, I really needed him to like the beach," says Brewster, who adds that he's now walking and is always "on-the-go." Julian—who's "obsessed with wheels"—will even "hear the beep of a garbage truck and run outside," she says. "It's the simplest things that keep him entertained."

Coming Together After Tragedy

An Orthodox Jewish family grapples with unspeakable grief after losing 7 children to a devastating fire in Brooklyn

The father of seven Orthodox Jewish children killed in a Brooklyn house fire on March 21 wept at their funeral, with thousands from the community mourning the unimaginable loss. Gabriel Sassoon, who moved with his wife, Gayle, and their children from Israel to New York City two years ago, was at a religious conference when the fire began around 12:30 a.m. Saturday. The fire began after a malfunctioning electric hot plate, used to keep food warm while obeying Sabbath rules, sparked flames that shot to the upstairs bedrooms. Gayle and a 15-year-old daughter narrowly escaped; at press time mother and daughter remained in the hospital in critical condition. "My children were so pure," Sassoon said at the funeral before the bodies of the four boys and three girls, ages 5 to 16, were flown to Israel for burial. "I want to ask my children for forgiveness. I did my best and my wife did her best. . . . There's nothing to say. There's nothing to say. There's only one way to survive this: complete and utter, total surrender. Surrender. That's it."

PERSONAL STORIES ABOUT GIVING

“Every child deserves a chance,” says Liu, 46.

Lucy Liu

The Elementary star works with UNICEF to help children worldwide

I came from humble beginnings, with my father and mother coming from China. They met in New York and built a life for themselves—and a life for us. Even though we didn't have all the things I would have wanted as a child, I felt like they really gave me an appreciation for the care and love we had. Now, as an adult, I realize what other people don't have. I've been involved with UNICEF since 1994 and was appointed as an ambassador in 2004. The atrocities that I've encountered on travels with the organization and the bravery that these children display is just shocking. On a trip to the Congo, I remember seeing children's faces, and they did not look like children. Their expressions were those of adults who had been going through a very, very difficult time. I went to a school there and children were holding on to these nubs of pencils. To them, they were these precious things. UNICEF has given me an appreciation for life, for people and for humanity. It's about getting out the message that we need to help children and educate ourselves. Education is key to understanding what needs to change for these kids in the future.

“I’VE TRIED LAXATIVES,
BUT MY BELLY PAIN AND CONSTIPATION
COME RIGHT BACK LIKE A RAGING STORM.”

Proactively manage your recurring symptoms with LINZESS®

Do you keep taking laxatives, but can't get your symptoms to stay away? You may have more than just occasional constipation. It's time to talk to your doctor about your belly pain and constipation. Then ask about LINZESS, a once-daily capsule that's approved to help adults manage symptoms of IBS with Constipation. LINZESS works differently from laxatives. It is thought to work in two ways: by helping to calm pain-sensing nerves*, and by accelerating bowel movements. LINZESS may relieve your belly pain and let you have more frequent and complete bowel movements that are easier to pass.

Bottom line, if your IBS-C symptoms keep coming back, ask your doctor about LINZESS today.

*This was seen in animal studies and the relevance to humans is not known.

Who is LINZESS for?

Prescription LINZESS® (linaclotide) is for adults with IBS-C. It is not known if LINZESS is safe and effective in children.

IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION

- Do not give LINZESS to children who are under 6 years of age. It may harm them.
- You should not give LINZESS to children 6 to 17 years of age. It may harm them.
- Do not take LINZESS if a doctor has told you that you have a bowel blockage (intestinal obstruction).

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.FDA.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Before you take LINZESS, tell your doctor:

- If you have any other medical conditions.
- If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if LINZESS will harm your unborn baby.
- If you are breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if LINZESS passes into your breast milk.
- About all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Side Effects

LINZESS can cause serious side effects, including diarrhea, the most common side effect, which can sometimes be severe. Diarrhea often begins within the first 2 weeks of LINZESS treatment. Stop taking LINZESS and call your doctor right away if you get severe diarrhea during treatment with LINZESS.

Other common side effects of LINZESS include gas, stomach-area (abdominal) pain, swelling, or a feeling of fullness or pressure in your abdomen (distension). Tell your doctor if you have any side effect that bothers you or that does not go away. These are not all the possible side effects of LINZESS. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

In addition, call your doctor or go to the nearest hospital emergency room right away if you develop unusual or severe stomach-area (abdominal) pain, especially if you also have bright red, bloody stools or black stools that look like tar.

No. 1 Get Hard

Kevin Hart teaches rich ninny Will Ferrell how to dodge all the bullies in the jail yard

MOVIE COMEDY It's high time we had a mainstream comedy seriously address inequality and race. For now, though, we've got this funny, old-school buddy picture. Ferrell plays a zillionaire being railroaded into prison on trumped-up charges of fraud. Hart, who runs the car wash in Ferrell's office tower, agrees to teach him how to tough it out in the slammer. The twist (a good one) is that Hart is a straight arrow, improvising "street" lessons for cash. The stars pair up effortlessly. Ferrell's performance is chiefly his foolproof on-the-surface facetiousness, while Hart's is driven internally, a matter of emotional compression and combustion. The one problem? Endless jokes about Ferrell's panic and disgust anticipating the intimate practices of incarcerated males. It's a disturbingly standard Hollywood device: You get the impression straight men would rather be sentenced to be fed to wild hogs and rats. Let's kill this gay-baiting cliché. (March 27, R)

No. 2 Weird Loners

TV COMEDY Donnie Darko? Weird loner, yes. Carrie's telekinetic psycho? Her too. But the four characters in this engaging sitcom are more eccentrically silly (Torrence and Kumbhani), or maybe too elastically cute for their own good (Newton and Knighton). Having set up house, they all unpack their singular peculiarities: Torrence's sock-puppet reenactment of JFK's affair with Marilyn Monroe will be hard to top. (FOX, March 31, 9:30 p.m.)

Jessa Duggar

No. 3 19 Kids & Counting

TV REALITY The third of Jim Bob and Michelle Duggar's children walks down the aisle, and the tears fall. Jessa actually married Ben Seewald Nov. 1, but this two-hour episode is a proper souvenir album for fans. The couple save their first kiss for off-camera—but if the more than fourscore Duggars and Seewalds gathered for the event don't get to witness it, why should you? Just be happy! (TLC, March 31, 8 p.m.)

No. 4 Kendrick Lamar, To Pimp a Butterfly
The rapper more than delivers on a brilliant new LP

MUSIC HIP-HOP Lamar's 2012 good kid, m.A.A.d city earned him not only five Grammy nominations but a fan base that extended from Stephen Colbert to Taylor Swift. The follow-up, Butterfly, is even more ambitious—and politically of the moment. Race, poverty and violence are the themes of his raps on standout tracks “u,” “The Blacker the Berry” and “i.” His laser focus commands complete attention, start to finish, over a soundtrack of jazz and funk—a whole 79 minutes. Butterfly could set him up for the throne. Watch out, Kanye.

Lamar rises even higher on Butterfly.

Oh and Tip go to the ends of the earth for their families.

No. 5 Home
ANIMATED MOVIE Based on Adam Rex's 2007 children's book The True Meaning of Smekday, this 3D Dreamworks concoction follows Tip (Rihanna) as she attempts to reunite with her mother (Jennifer Lopez) after Earth is invaded by an alien race called the Boov. Home is the sort of family entertainment that should have kids rolling in the aisles and adults, perhaps, indulging in at least a smile or two. And there are adorable critters, including a misfit alien, Oh (Jim Parsons), and a cat named Pig. One final reason not to stay home: The soundtrack features irresistible numbers from the two leading ladies. (March 27, PG)

No. 6 Wild
DVD DRAMA Finally sober but still lost, Cheryl Strayed trekked 1,100 miles on the Pacific Crest Trail to reclaim herself. Wild retraces those bold steps, with Reese Witherspoon (as Strayed) and Laura Dern (as Cheryl's relentlessly, heartbreakingly upbeat mom) landing Oscar nods for their work. Those hoping to follow Cheryl's path should grab the Blu-ray, with its interactive map of the trail. (March 31)

No. 7 The Dovekeepers
TV DRAMA According to a first-century historian, there were fewer than a dozen survivors of the mass Jewish suicides at Masada, the rebel stronghold destroyed by Roman forces in AD 70. Playing two women looking back on this cataclysm, former NCIS star Cote de Pablo and Rachel Brosnahan are at times in danger of being swallowed up by such a tumultuous narrative. But Brosnahan at least has vivid, visionary dreams involving a lion—not a nice one—and the conclusion is wrenching. (CBS, March 31, 9 p.m.)

Cote de Pablo's journey leads to Masada in this miniseries.

No. 8 The Best New Books

A black comedy, a gothic tale of belle epoque Paris and a heart-tugging look at the lives of orca whales in captivity
EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

M.J. Rose The Witch of Painted Sorrows

NOVEL Fleeing New York after her father's suicide, Sandrine seeks refuge at his mother's Paris home, Maison de la Lune, despite her grandmother's warnings. Grandma's onto something: Sandrine is soon drawn in by the house's dark spirit. This belle epoque thriller is a haunting tale of obsessive passions.

John Hargrove Beneath the Surface

NONFICTION In the documentary Blackfish, ex orca trainer Hargrove spoke out about the artificial breeding, cramped living spaces and other captivity problems he believes led SeaWorld orcas to kill two trainers and a tourist. His book is a heartfelt plea to allow these creatures what humans "had no right to take from them"—their freedom.

Judith Claire Mitchell A Reunion of Ghosts

NOVEL The Alter sisters are convinced they're cursed: Their great-grandfather's inventions led to mass killings in two world wars, and they've lost multiple relatives to suicide. So Lady, Delph and Vee—middle-aged, Jewish and living in their family apartment in Manhattan—decide to exit the world together. Laughing yet? It's hardly an amusing premise, but Mitchell explores the mixed-blessing bonds of family with wry wit. This original tale is black comedy at its best.

NEW IN PAPERBACK

Noah Strycker The Thing with Feathers

Did you know that nutcrackers have great memories? That penguins are afraid of the dark? This exploration of the lives of birds is perfect for spring.

Emily Giffin The One & Only

A poignant, entertaining novel about a football-crazed Texas town and the woman who's devoted her life to it—until unforeseen tragedy strikes.

Smith Henderson Fourth of July Creek

In this acclaimed debut, a Montana social worker with problems of his own becomes embroiled in the lives of a troubled boy and his survivalist dad.

Ben Stiller and Naomi Watts are starting to feel like old folks at home.

No. 9 While We're Young
MOVIE

COMEDY Hipsters Jamie and Darby (Adam Driver and Amanda Seyfried) are young, gorgeous and so kinetic they're practically action verbs. No wonder older documentarians Josh and Cornelia (Stiller and Watts) are moony over them: The brats may have grown-up ambition—Driver wants to make documentaries too—but no grown-up problems. Director Noah Baumbach and his pitch-perfect cast skewer generational clashes, marriage and existential crises. It's a film that's fun for kids of old ages. (March 27, R)

No. 10 Killing Jesus
TV

DRAMA Based on the bestseller by Bill O'Reilly and Martin Dugard, Jesus spells out the behind-the-scenes geopolitics of Jerusalem at the time of the crucifixion. It's very well done: The bitter negotiations between Rome's Pontius Pilate (True Blood star Stephen Moyer) and Jewish high priest Caiaphas (Rufus Sewell) can be summed up by a reality TV slogan: "Outwit, outlast, outplay." However, on another contemporaneous note, it's jarring to hear a disciple use "impact" as a verb. (National Geographic, March 29, 8 p.m.)

MUSIC DANCE A staple on the festival circuit, Dutch DJ Garrix creates a sound that

In L.A., a big, blue testament to what L. Ron Hubbard wrought.

No. 12 Going Clear: Scientology and the Prison of Belief

TV DOCUMENTARY Here is your best general introduction to the controversy known as the Church of Scientology. Director Alex Gibney, adapting Lawrence Wright's book, works his way through the history with methodical rigor: from founder L. Ron Hubbard, whose beginnings as a science-fiction writer shaped the church's dogma, to its Hollywood ambassadors (Tom Cruise, depicted as cocooned, and John Travolta, rather pathetic). What drives it all, according to Clear, is a blunt skill for reaping money, for controlling members (to the point of penal servitude) and for punishing those who abandon the church (which, in a statement, calls the film "insidious religious persecution"). Such apostates are labeled, without irony, suppressives. (HBO, March 29, 8 p.m.)

BRITNEY SPEARS IS LOVING HER 'BLESSED' LIFE

FAMILY TIME

"They would describe me as very funny, sweet and loving," says Spears of sons Preston (top) and Jayden (hanging out with Mom at home on March 11).

It's a sunny March afternoon outside Britney Spears's hillside mansion in Southern California, and the backyard antics are in full swing. With light sabers in hand, the superstar's sons—Sean Preston, 9, wearing an astronaut's helmet, and Jayden James, 8, in a Darth Vader mask—happily spar on the grass. “Ohhhh yesss!” yells Preston after he nails a front flip, landing on his feet near Jayden, who follows with a 360-degree break-dance-style spin on his back. Taking in the brotherly shenanigans, Spears smiles and at one point playfully scolds her boyfriend of six months, producer Charlie Ebersol, 32, when he swings Jayden up in the air beside the pool. “Baby, do not drop my son!” she says. The kids start to giggle.

Laughter is the norm these days around the Spears home. After more than 15 years as a pop star, the multi-platinum singer is on a roll—her long-running Las Vegas residency has grossed nearly $50 million in ticket sales in little more than a year. But while she loves performing, Spears's true passion is being a mother. “My kids come first in my life, bottom line,” says Spears, 33. Her mom, Lynne, who visits from Louisiana each month, tells PEOPLE, “I am so proud of my daughter and all her accomplishments, but I am especially proud of the mom she is and the woman she has become.”

Finding a balance isn't always easy, but Spears is thankful she's able to enjoy both a booming career and a private life as a soccer mom, girlfriend and devoted daughter. She doesn't take any of it for granted. Says the megastar: “I'm very, very blessed.”

'I would love to [get married again]. I believe in the fairy tale' with the dogs. Preston just asked for a high allowance—like $10 a week or $20 a week—but we'll see.

How would you feel if they wanted to go into the entertainment business?

They're not passionate about it. If it's something they want to do in the future, I would try to steer them away from it. But if they really had a true love for it, then I would help them, since it's about what that little person wants for their life, you know?

How is Charlie with them?

They relate to him really well, and they have fun together. He's refreshing to be around and really lighthearted....

My assistant introduced us. I saw a picture of him and I thought he was really adorable, and she said he was good people, so I went for it. For our first date he said, "What do you want to do?" and I said, "Cook for me," so he made fish, mushrooms, avocado with a dressing, and tomatoes and mozzarella. It was amazing. There was something about him that made me feel really peaceful and at ease. And he was really hot too. Adorably hot. For my birthday we made waffles

What's a normal day at home like?

We get up and have breakfast. Eggs, bacon, croissants—yummy stuff. The kids just got into doing their hair and trying to be cool, which is really funny. Preston wants to be Justin Bieber, and Jayden has this whole Jim Carrey look.... After school sometimes they'll go to gymnastics, which they love. Or I take them to the skate park. They're obsessed. We have a half-pipe at the house. They go to a really hard school, and this week we had three hours of homework [a night]. Some of it is hard for me. Next year when [Preston's] in fifth grade, he's going to be doing pre-algebra, and I'm taking classes so I know how to do it! Homework is a priority, and we have a reward system that helps motivate them: If they get so many A's, they get one toy a month.

Describe their personalities.

Preston is very opinionated, very expressive, and if he doesn't like something, he's going to tell you. But he has a huge heart, he's a good kid, and he has manners. It's been enlightening for me to see him growing and changing. Jayden is sweet, very soft-spoken, kinda funny. He's adorable—a mama's boy.... They put their plates in the sink and wash them off; they take out the trash and help

THE "NAZI BUTCHER"

Goeth (above, in '45 before he was hanged as a war criminal and, below, played by Fiennes in 1993's Schindler's List) picked off the concentration camp's children with a rifle from his porch. "Nothing explains his cruelty," says Teege (left).

'My Grandfather Was a Nazi'

ADOPTED AS A CHILD, JENNIFER TEEGE RECENTLY DISCOVERED A FAMILY SECRET: HER GRANDFATHER WAS THE MONSTROUS SS OFFICER PLAYED BY RALPH FIENNES IN SCHINDLER'S LIST

Jennifer Teege never knew much about her family history. Born in Munich, the daughter of a German mother and a Nigerian father, she was placed in an orphanage and then foster care before being adopted by her foster parents at age 7. She saw her mother and grandmother sporadically before the adoption, then briefly reconnected with her mom at age 20. So in 2008, when Teege was 38 and working in advertising she came across a book called I Have to Love My Father, Don't I? The Life Story of Monika Goeth at a library in Hamburg, she instantly recognized the name of the woman who had given birth to her. "Jennifer was trembling," her husband, Goetz, recalls. Says Teege:

1. SS officer Goeth. 2. Teege's grandmother (with one of the dogs Goeth trained to attack prisoners) called her husband "the most important man in her life," says Teege. 3. The author with adoptive brother Matthias ca. 1980.

"The moment I had that book in my hand, I knew it would give me so many answers."

But those answers proved, as Teege puts it, "a toxic power" that caused nightmares and a breakdown: The grandfather she never knew—but whose photo she remembers hanging over her beloved grandmother's bed—was Amon Goeth, Nazi commandant of Plaszow concentration camp. Notorious for his abhorrence of mixing races and for siccing his dogs on Jews for sport, Goeth was portrayed by Ralph Fiennes in the movie Schindler's List. "Has my whole life been a lie? I feel like I have been traveling under a false name," Teege writes in her memoir My Grandfather Would Have Shot Me.

With the help of a therapist, Teege, whose adoptive parents hadn't known about her history, worked through terrible emotions. There was anger at her mother for telling her story to an author but not her daughter. But there was too a feeling of confused betrayal toward the grandmother, Ruth

'There is no such thing as inherited guilt'

Irene Kalder, who had held Teege's hand as a girl and "felt like home," she says. She can't reconcile those memories with images of Kalder swanning about Plaszow with Goeth's killer dogs. "I could never have stayed with him like she did," Teege says. "But if I say I love her, would it mean that I too close my eyes to what my grandfather did?"

Then there was the loathing for Goeth, whose evil was unthinkable to a woman whose college years in Israel included time spent reading to elderly Holocaust survivors. "I just reject him as a person," says Teege. Promoting her book's overseas release, she has reached out to Holocaust survivors and Israelis. While she's not yet ready to share

Goeth's story with her two young sons ("Maybe when they're 17 or 18. I still want to protect them"), Teege is finally at peace with her own. "A Nazi gene doesn't exist," she says. "We can decide for ourselves who and what we want to be."

"My sons will read my book—but not yet," Teege says.

A SON'S DEATH, A NEW MISSION

PHYLLIS AND DARREN SUDMAN
HAVE PROVIDED FREE HEART SCREENINGS
TO THOUSANDS OF YOUNGSTERS

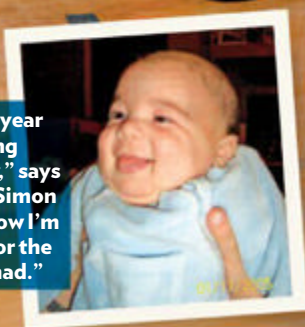

"Every day I think of him," says Phyllis (holding Simon's photo with Darren at Conshohocken Elementary School in Pennsylvania, with screened kids).

TEN YEARS AGO PHYLLIS SUDMAN placed Simon, her bouncy, smiling 3-month-old, in his crib for a nap. "He never woke up," says Phyllis, 43. Grief-stricken and wanting answers, she and husband Darren called their doctor, who told them, "you should get your hearts checked," Darren, 44, recalls. They learned Phyllis had a congenital heart defect that, untreated, could have stopped her heart, just as it apparently did Simon's. "He saved my life," Phyllis says. The Sudmans, who have a healthy 12-year-old daughter, Sally, and son, Jaden, 8, have been saving lives ever since. Raising $1 million for their nonprofit Simon's Fund (simonsfund.org), Darren and Phyllis—who was named the 2014 L'Oréal Paris Women of Worth National Honoree—have provided free screenings for nearly 11,000 kids, uncovering treatable heart defects in about 100. Drew Harrington, 16, of Radnor, Pa., had a 2011 screening that led to lifesaving corrective surgery. "I feel a connection to that baby boy," says Drew, a basketball and tennis player. "I'm just really thankful." —SANDRASOBIERAJ WESTFALL

"My first year grieving I was angry," says Darren of Simon (right). "Now I'm grateful for the time we had."

CELINE DION

Facing Her Husband's Health Crisis

'We're Living Each Day to the Fullest'

WITH THE SUPPORT OF HER HUSBAND, WHO IS FIGHTING CANCER FOR A THIRD TIME, THE SINGER PREPARES FOR HER RETURN TO THE STAGE

Dion and Angélil at the Colosseum on March 16.

Celine Dion is in her element. It's mid-March and she's onstage at Caesars Palace's the Colosseum for the first time since her abrupt hiatus last year, delivering a few bars on a whim and cracking jokes. But at one point she takes a step back to share a quiet moment with her husband of 20 years, René Angélil. Holding his face, grown visibly thinner from his ongoing battle with cancer, she whispers in his ear in their native French and plants a kiss on his cheek. "I always remember that saying when you get married: 'In sickness and in health,'" Dion says later. "I am scared of losing him, because it's bad . . . but I have to show myself, my husband and my kids that I'm strong and we're okay."

Dion has been working overtime to ensure her family's well-being, leaving her Las Vegas residency indefinitely in August to be with Angélil, 73, and their three sons, René-Charles, 14, and twins Eddy and Nelson, 4½. "It really took a toll,” explains Dion of juggling her career with caring for her ailing husband, who had been recovering from throat cancer surgery, and their kids. “When I stopped performing, I wanted to be just a wife and a mother.” But after some months at home, they began planning her comeback before receiving another blow: Angélil’s cancer had come back for a third time. (He was first diagnosed in 1999.) Yet they decided to move forward with her return—kicking off Aug. 27—at the urging of Angélil. Says Dion, tearing up: “He wants me to sing again, and I want to do this with him.”

The couple, who began dating when Dion was 20 and Angélil, her manager, was 46, have a marriage that has always thrived in adversity. “It’s made us stronger,” she says of their struggles, which, besides Angélil’s health issues, have included a miscarriage, fertility problems and Dion’s own throat illness that sidelined her last year. “We’ve been through a lot and we’re not questioning, ‘What happened and why? And how come again?’ We just have to get through it the best possible way.” Still, she admits, “sickness is tough; it’s not something you choose.” Today, Angélil remains unable to speak due to extensive throat surgery, has difficulty hearing because of past radiation treatments and eats through a feeding tube. Dion’s return to the stage is just one of several “baby steps” the family is taking. “You just have to live every day to the fullest. . . . We don’t know what the future will bring, so we decided to just go for it.”

Days at home in Las Vegas are indeed full—and happy—with the center of their lives being their three children. “The twins are fine because they’re young,” says Dion. “But I’m worried about RC. He understands what’s going on, and I feel a lot of empathy for him and I want him to feel like he can talk [about things].” Still, the teenager, who is homeschooled, is thriving and coming into his own. “RC is very athletic,” says Dion with a proud smile. “He’s playing a lot of golf and hockey. We’re always going to the games supporting him.” As for her vivacious twins, “they go from the pool to the sandbox to the crayons, and then there was potty-training,” she says with a smirk. “That took us a while!” It’s these three energetic faces that give her strength. “They help me to keep busy and stay positive,” she says. “I just can’t sit around and worry.” Even when she has “those days,” it’s about keeping life moving. “I’m enjoying the time I have with them and my mommy life and my wife life. It’s wonderful.”

Back Onstage

When she resumes her Vegas residency in August, Dion will be returning to one of the most profitable tours in America. The ongoing support from fans, Dion says, “is very touching.”

‘I want to be the wife and mother, but that doesn’t mean I won’t be passionate about music’
—CELINE DION

She’s also finding renewed joy in music. “At one point,” says Dion, “it was too hard” performing night after night. But with some help from her husband, she has found a way to come to terms with being an entertainer and a wife and a mom. “He was ready before me!” says Dion with a laugh. “He amazes me. I feel very fortunate I still have him. . . . René has a little written destiny, but what exactly and when, nobody knows, and we’re not waiting for it.” In the weeks and months ahead, they’re looking forward to Easter-egg painting and a busy, fun summer before Dion gets back to work. Envisioning that opening night in August, the singer takes a deep breath. “René will be in the audience,” she says. “I promise there will be high, happy notes, but it’s going to be very emotional for me. Music is my passion, and my family is my life.” ●

"They were ready for the next phase of their life and ready to raise their little girl," friend Lynne Mishele says of the couple (in 2012).

A TRUST BETRAYED

FOOD NETWORK MURDER MYSTERY

A pregnant chef and her husband are killed—and their handyman is arrested for the murders

Anytime Cristie Schoen Codd whipped up a batch of her grandma's crawfish étouffée—or shrimp créole, or any of the other Cajun-inspired dishes she learned growing up in Biloxi, Miss.—she always supersized her recipes. "I don't think she knew how to make food for less than 80 people, because when she thought about sharing her table, it was with everybody," says Julia Sachs, a close friend. And Cristie, who competed on Food Network Star in 2012 and was expecting her first baby—a girl to be named Skylar—in July, had found her perfect match in husband J.T. At Thanksgiving the couple rented out the local community center to host a feast open to all. "J.T. was so open and trusting with all kinds of people,” says Sachs.

That trust may have cost the Coddys their lives. The day after relatives reported the couple missing on March 15, police in the tiny North Carolina town of Leicester arrested Robert Jason Owens, a 37-year-old handyman who had been working on the Coddys’ property and had even attended their wedding last October. According to warrants released in the case, Owens—who has been charged with two counts of first-degree murder and the murder of an unborn child—told police he “stored and destroyed” the bodies of Cristie, 38, and J.T., 45, at his property a mile from their home, where authorities said they found human remains in a woodstove. The warrants also revealed that J.T., who worked as a film and TV production grip, was killed when he was struck by his 2008 Dodge Ram pickup while Owens was at the wheel. (Investigators have not shared a motive or Cristie’s cause of death; at press time Owens had not yet entered a plea.)

For friends of the bighearted parents-to-be, the loss is profound. Spending time with the pair “was like being around the sun,” says pal Perry Sachs. “They had so much love for the world.” With a shared passion for adventure and the outdoors, the couple had left behind their busy lives in California—where Cristie had worked as a caterer and actress—to settle on a lush, 36-acre property with a fixer-upper house and pursue their dreams of running a hydroponic farm and café and raising a family. “She was ready to have her baby and run the farm,” says Dirk Long, Cristie’s partner in Tree Hugger Catering, which served on-location food for Hollywood films. Cristie’s father had begun building a crib, J.T. was cleaning out a room for the nursery, and Cristie “was already stocking up and pressing baby clothes,” Long says. “She was totally organized and just so excited.”

The couple hired Owens—also a person of interest in a 2000 missing-persons case (see box)—to help renovate their property and gave him some $7,000 to set up his own business. “J.T. was always trying to help the guy who was down on his luck,” says Long. “I said, ‘You can’t do that in the mountains of western North Carolina.’ My opinion is that [Owens] probably asked for more money and Cristie put her foot down.”

Now their loved ones are left to imagine what might have been. “This town was supposed to be the kind of place that accepted their generosity, where they could sit on the porch and enjoy a quiet cup of coffee,” says friend Lynne Mishele. “That was stolen from them—and their baby girl.”

A Missing Teen, a Chilling Link?

Owens is a person of interest in the 2000 disappearance of 18-year-old Zebb Quinn, who worked with him at Walmart, says Yvonne Cobourn, a former police detective turned private investigator. Owens was seen on surveillance tape buying soft drinks with Quinn the night the teen disappeared. Asheville police Sgt. Dave Romick calls Owens’s arrest in the Coddys’ murders a “significant event” in the Quinn cold case.

When Sarah Specht came back from a family vacation last fall, she stepped out of the room, leaving her son Hunter, 5, with their new golden retriever Angel. "As I went up the stairs Hunter started having a seizure, and Angel kept barking," says Specht. Luckily Angel is more than just a lovable pup. She has been trained by the nonprofit 4 Paws for Ability to alert others when Hunter, who suffers from a rare form of epilepsy, has a medical emergency. The 1-year-old canine accompanies Hunter to school, cuddles with him at bedtime—so she can alert Specht to any nighttime seizures—and even calms him down during his regular hospital visits. Because of his condition, "Hunter has difficulty meeting people," says Specht, 36, a college student. "Now he has a true best friend."

The puppy was born with only two legs, but that has never slowed her down. But to give Bubbles a bit more freedom outside, Byers, a mechanic, used a 3-D printer to develop a custom cart with wheels and straps to support her torso. "She can go up and down our little hills in the backyard," says Byers. And when the harness comes off inside her home, Bubbles uses her hind legs to hop around on soft surfaces. "She has no problem keeping up, with or without the cart," Byers says. "She's always a happy dog no matter what."

SERAPHINA | MOORESVILLE, N.C.

When two newborn Rottweilers were abandoned by their mother, Seraphina rushed in to nurse them. The twist? Seraphina's not another canine mom; she's an 18-month-old tabby. "She'd just had a tiny litter of three kittens, so we decided it doesn't hurt to try," says Lori Root, director of the Humane Society of Iredell County. "Seraphina immediately took to them. It was beautiful." The growing pups, Wyatt and Willow, need feedings every two hours, so the center still supplements with bottles. In a few weeks they'll be big enough to be weaned—and adopted! In the meantime, says Root, "she takes very good care of those babies."

"We're lucky that animals are so adaptable," says Root.

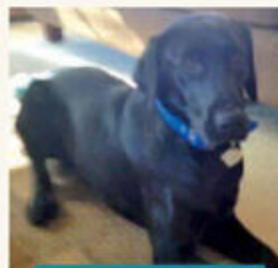

There's always room for one more!

THE WHITE HOUSE HEROES

Where was Bo? Secret Service dogs Hurricane and Jordan helped to quickly pin down an intruder who jumped over the White House fence last October. The highly trained Belgian Malinois K-9s suffered minor bruising but were universally heralded for their heroism.

THE REAL-LIFE LASSIE

As officer John Gonzalez patrolled Germantown, Wis., in February, a barking black Labrador caught his attention. The dog, John Boy, led Gonzalez to a house, where its owner (who reportedly had a heart condition) was found unconscious. She was rushed to the hospital and stabilized. Good boy, John Boy!

THE CAT THAT SAVED A BABY FROM FREEZING

In January a stray feline in Obninsk, Russia, saved the life of a baby boy left in a box on a cold stairwell. The cat, described by locals who fed her as quiet and friendly, meowed to attract the attention of passersby and snuggled beside the tot until he was rescued.

Your dog shares the spirit of the wolf. And his love for meat.

BLUE Wilderness® is made with more of the chicken, duck or salmon dogs love.

All dogs are descendants of the wolf, which means they share many similar traits—including a love for meat. That's why we created BLUE Wilderness.

Made with the finest natural ingredients, BLUE Wilderness is formulated with a higher concentration of the chicken, duck or salmon dogs love. And BLUE Wilderness has none of the grains that contain gluten.

If you want your dog to enjoy a meat-rich diet like his ancestors once did, there's nothing better than BLUE Wilderness.

SPIKE MENDELSON

Grilled Lamb Chops with Lemon Crema

THE CHEF AND OWNER OF GOOD STUFF EATERY IN CHICAGO SERVES UP A HOLIDAY DISH YOU'LL COME BACK TO AGAIN AND AGAIN

- 4 sprigs thyme
- 2 sprigs rosemary, chopped
- 5 garlic cloves, smashed
- ½ tsp. ground cumin
- ½ tsp. cayenne pepper
- ½ cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 lbs. lamb loin chops
- ½ tsp. kosher salt
- ¼ tsp. ground black pepper

1. In a large bowl, combine first five ingredients. Add the olive oil and whisk to combine. Place the lamb chops in a gallon-size plastic storage bag. Pour the marinade into the bag, seal, and toss to combine. Let the chops marinate in the fridge for 2 hours, or up to overnight.

2. Preheat a grill or grill pan over medium-high heat. Remove the lamb from the marinade and pat to dry. Season both sides with the salt and pepper. Place the chops on the grill, reduce the heat to medium, and cover. Cook for 3 to 4 minutes, flip the meat, and cover to cook for another 3 to 4 minutes. Serve with lemon crema (see right).

Serves: 4

Prep time: 15 minutes

Cook time: 10 minutes

Lemon Crema

Combine ½ cup Greek yogurt, 1 tbsp. sour cream, 1 tbsp. lemon juice, ½ tsp. lemon zest and ½ tsp. honey in a large bowl. Season with ½ tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. ground black pepper, and whisk well to combine.

GreatIdeas

- 1 cup loosely packed basil leaves
- 1 cup loosely packed mint leaves
- 9 tbsp. extra-virgin olive oil, divided
- 1½ tsp. grated lemon zest
- 1 tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. kosher salt, divided
- 4 thick slices ciabatta bread
- 2 tbsp. minced shallots
- 1 tsp. minced garlic
- 1½ cups fresh English peas
- 4 oz. burrata or fresh mozzarella, at room temperature
- ⅛ tsp. ground black pepper
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

1. In a food processor, combine the basil, mint, 5 tbsp. oil, lemon zest, lemon juice and ¼ tsp. salt, and process until nearly smooth, about 1 minute. Leave the mixture in the food processor.

2. Heat a grill or grill pan over medium-high heat. Drizzle 2 tbsp. oil over both sides of the ciabatta and season with ½ tsp. salt. Grill the bread for about 3 minutes per side, or until lightly toasted and grill marks form. Transfer to a serving platter.

3. In a skillet over medium heat, add the remaining 2 tbsp. oil, then add the shallots and garlic; sauté for 2 to 3 minutes, or until tender and translucent. Add the peas and cook for 3 to 5 minutes, or until they are cooked through but still bright green and crisp-tender. Remove from heat.

4. Place one half of the warm pea mixture into a large bowl, and add the other half to the pesto in the food processor. Pulse 12 to 15 times until the peas are coarsely chopped. Transfer the chopped peas mixture to the bowl of whole peas and fold to combine.

5. Divide the burrata or mozzarella among the ciabatta slices, and season with salt and pepper. Spoon the pesto on top, sprinkle with Parmesan, and serve immediately.

An exclusive pic of Mendes behind the scenes while shooting her spring line (in stores and online now).

When the star is designing for New York & Company, "it's just clothes exploding everywhere!" she tells PEOPLE. "We bring in vintage stuff and a lot from my own closet." She also listens to her customers: "I read the comments on the [brand's] Facebook page." In one case, too-billowy sleeves got the boot. "I was like, 'I hear you, I'm not doing that again!'"

THE ACTRESS AND NEW YORK & COMPANY DESIGNER, 41, SHARES THE SECRETS TO HER POLISHED LOOK

ADD A BELT TO DEFINE YOUR WAIST.

Play up your shape "My mom was a young lady in the '50s, and a very cinched waist was the fashion then," says Mendes, who also favors an hourglass silhouette. Her secret: a "great belt," not shape wear ("I find it torturous!").

Look for inspiration in unlikely places "If I see a Goodwill or a Salvation Army, it's so much fun for me to stop in," she says. "I'm like an archaeologist—I can feel when there's gold in the hills. . . . [And] my hairstylist and I just bought a bunch of very cheap scarves at the airport."

Keep your leisure wear ladylike She's joked about steering clear of sweatpants at home and prefers loose dresses to denim. "I find them so much more comfortable than jeans. Obviously I've worn jeans in the past, but it was because all my dresses were dirty!"

Have a go-to look "I know what fits and I know what I like, even down to my makeup," says Mendes, who takes just 10 minutes to get ready, even after giving birth in September to Esmeralda, her daughter with boyfriend Ryan Gosling. "I don't always look put-together, and that's okay. I don't put pressure on myself."

Find a signature accessory

"38 years later and still holding strong on the head-wrap comeback," she wrote on Instagram of this childhood pic. It's her fallback: "When in doubt, I put my hair in a head scarf and I'm out the door!"

SPECIAL REPORT

The Youth Hormone...

Everyone's talking about it. But can it really reduce body fat, increase lean muscle mass, boost mood, heighten sex drive, give you plenty of energy, get rid of wrinkles and tighten saggy skin?

Barbara just had another birthday.

She watches her diet, exercises when she can, and is in pretty good shape. In fact, she could be the poster child for the "Fountain of Youth" headline we see on the covers of fashion mags around the globe. What's her secret? It's not just the occasional Botox, peel or filler, or even her assortment of skin creams that could rival the anti-aging section of your local Sephora. Barbara, who was always "cutting edge," has become a believer in what is fast becoming the most popular (if not the most expensive) anti-aging treatment in the USA... Growth Hormone Therapy. – By Tiffany Strobel*

*i*t seems everyone is talking about human growth hormone lately. No less than the famed Dr. Oz began a recent show by asking his audience, "How many of you want to start feeling 20 years younger right now?" Allure magazine, in its "Anti-aging Special" issue, highlighted growth hormone as its year-end call-out. Shape magazine began a recent growth hormone article with the provocative lead in: "When you see a 50-year-old actress who can pass for 35, you can bet that good genes aren't the only things responsible for her youthful glow." Fox News, The Today Show, CNN, ABC, and CBS have all contributed to the current frenzy.

VANITY FAIR says: "A 20-year-old produces more than twice as much hGH as [she] will when [she's] 40... hGH, by turning back the body clock, turns back the aging process."

DR. OZ says: “I have been searching for this from the day we started the show. I’ve been looking for ways of increasing hGH naturally because I don’t like getting the injections.”

Why all the fuss?

Simple. hGH disciples... and to many like Barbara, hGH therapy is truly a religious experience... believe hGH can help reduce body fat, increase lean muscle mass, boost mood, heighten sex drive, give them plenty of energy, get rid of wrinkles and tighten saggy skin... making them look and feel decades – not years, but decades – younger. Celebrities, CEOs, Wall Street execs, models, housewives, athletes and even some high-ranking politicians all seem to be drinking from the same pitcher of Kool-Aid. There’s no doubt about it; in our current fast-paced, “youth-oriented” culture, hGH therapy is hot.

The controversy

The controversy isn’t over whether or not hGH plays an essential role in our health and aging (virtually everyone already agrees on that). Instead, the controversy lies in the best way to maintain our body’s supply of human growth hormone. Until recently, most felt the best way was through expensive prescription injections (although costs can run as high as $1500 per month). However, some experts argue against the use of these synthetic injections, because they fear introducing synthetic hGH into the body may upset natural hGH production.

The breakthrough

Because of growth hormone’s potential, researchers have spent the last thirty years searching for a reliable, clinically proven way to promote pituitary health, thereby increasing human growth hormone levels naturally. So it’s no surprise that when an oral compound capable of increasing mean, endogenous, bioactive, serum (blood) growth hormone levels... by 682%... was presented at the prestigious Obesity

Society’s most recent Scientific Meeting in Atlanta, Georgia, The Academy of Women’s Health’s 21st Annual Congress in Washington, D.C., and then again at The 9th World Congress of Cosmetic Dermatology held in Athens, Greece, it created a serious stir.

The revolution

The formula that was the subject of these research findings is now being sold by SanMedica International™ under the trade name SeroVital®. And when Dr. Oz disclosed that “a recent added to the SeroVital mystique by issuing not one but ten U.S. Patents to protect the SeroVital formula from imitators.[‡]

Thanks to the release of SeroVital, the hGH revolution has finally arrived. Now that there’s an easy-to-swallow capsule that can raise growth hormone naturally, an awful lot of people have stopped asking if they should be increasing their hGH levels and started asking which hGH-boosting option is right for them.

Is it worth it?

To me, anything that may reduce wrinkles, tighten saggy skin, decrease body fat, increase lean

SHAPE says: “When you see a 50-year-old actress who can pass for 35, you can bet that good genes aren’t the only things responsible for her youthful glow.”

study [on SeroVital-hgh] showed patients given a special blend of amino acids saw their hGH levels spike more than 6 times...” and added, “I have been searching for this from the day we started the show. I’ve been looking for ways of increasing hGH naturally because I don’t like getting the injections,” you can imagine the frenzy he created. Before long, SanMedica was having trouble keeping SeroVital in stock. It went from underground sensation to full-blown phenomenon. Even the United States Patent Office has muscle mass, strengthen bones, and boost mood, while giving you plenty of energy and improving sex drive, is a no-brainer. However, make no mistake about it, the “established” medical community (and of course, they know everything) would say its benefits are largely anecdotal, and based on research that’s preliminary. But there’s no denying that something that has a chance of making you look and feel decades, not years, but DECADES, younger, is... at the very least... irresistible. Frankly, I’m ready to try it... How about you?

RETAILERS say: “Frankly, we haven’t seen this much customer excitement in years.”

So what’s the catch?

Dr. Amy Heaton, PhD, Director of Scientific Affairs for SanMedica International, says: “There are three. First, as with hGH injections, SeroVital is not a ‘magic bullet,’ but one part of a healthy lifestyle choice including a sensible diet and exercise regimen.

“Second, for proper absorption, you have to take SeroVital-hgh on an empty stomach. That means you either have to take it first thing in the morning and then not eat anything for two hours, or take it at night, at least two hours after your last meal... before you go to bed.

“And last but not least, while SeroVital is far less expensive than prescription hGH injections, it’s still not cheap... SeroVital will cost you about $100 a month.”

Where can I get it?

Having a hard time finding SeroVital-hgh? It’s currently available at all Ulta stores, Kohl’s, and select GNC locations. Over the next few months it will be available on a limited basis at prestige retailers across the U.S.

Featured Product!

Can’t wait? You can order it directly from SanMedica International by calling 1-800-704-6493 or visit their website at www.SeroVital.com. Use the promo code HGH304 at checkout and shipping is free![†]

Dolly!

THE COUNTRY LEGEND SADDLES UP TO CELEBRATE 30 YEARS OF DOLLYWOOD AND TALKS ABOUT HER FUTURE: 'I DON'T INTEND TO EVER RETIRE'

Photograph by MARTIN SCHOELLER

Not much fazes Dolly Parton—but climbing onto a carousel horse while wearing skintight denim and 6-in. heels for PEOPLE's March 21 photo shoot proves just a little tricky. "Oh, goodness," she says with her characteristic giggle. "This ain't gonna be easy."

Parton, 69, always comes out on top. In 1985, against the advice of naysayers, she partnered with the owners of a theme park in Tennessee's Great Smoky Mountains and created Dollywood. "When we first opened, I was so scared," she recalls. "I was just thinking, 'Oh, please. Let the people come.'"

They came by the carload. Thirty years later Parton is expanding her empire with a resort, DreamMore, this summer—and has no plans to slow down. "I don't intend to ever retire unless I get sick or my husband gets sick," she says. "I want to work until I fall over dead!"

She's also developing a series of TV movies for NBC based on "stories from my life and songs that I've written." And having a cosmetic line is on her bucket list. "I'm in my own class, but it's mostly low," she jokes. "I have my makeup on every day. It's how I feel comfortable."

And what does she want people to celebrate most about her? "There's a brain under the wig and a heart beneath the boobs," she says. "I may look artificial, but inside I'm totally real."

—STEVE HELLING

TIMELESS ICON

"It would surprise people how calm my life is when I'm out of the limelight," says Parton, whose outfit at the Dollywood carousel was inspired by her look on PEOPLE's cover in 1986.

Last injury

I had little bitty cuts on my shins. I looked down one day and was like, "What the hell is that?" You wouldn't know it looking at me, but it was from doing dead lifts with my trainer. The effort is so all-encompassing for me that I have no feeling in my shins when I'm doing it.

Last gift I gave

I took my sister [Julie] to London with me for the Home press trip. She'd never been, so she and my partner Todd [Spiewak] got to go gallivanting through London.

Last time I was frustrated

At work. I'm using some of my downtime to memorize the play [Broadway's An Act of God] for this summer, and I couldn't remember how the wording was in one part. Frustration is just what I bring to the party. Maybe a good therapist could help that.

Last time I was starstruck

I follow Marnie the Dog on Instagram, and she showed up on our set. I'm not kidding you; when I saw her little crooked walk, I was utterly starstruck. I felt it inside.

Last time I cried

Oh, Terms of Endearment was on and I teared up at some point. I watched until shortly before she talks to her boys for the last time. I just thought, Why do this? So I went to bed and played Candy Crush instead.
